Bihta, Patna | November 7, 2025

The Department of Community Medicine at Netaji Subhas Medical College & Hospital (NSMCH), Bihta, organized a community awareness rally on “One World, One Health” on Friday as part of the IAPSM–ICMR Joint Initiative on One Health. The rally emphasized the interdependence between human, animal, and environmental health, highlighting the need for collaborative action to prevent diseases and promote sustainable living. The awareness march was flagged off at 11:30 a.m. from the college’s main gate under the leadership of Dr. Animesh Gupta, Professor & Head of Community Medicine. The event was coordinated by Dr. Madhu Priya (Associate Professor) and Dr. Nishita (Senior Resident). Participants covered the hospital campus and nearby marketplace areas during the rally. MBBS students, MSW trainees, teaching faculty, and non-teaching staff actively participated in the initiative. Students carried placards with messages promoting disease prevention and environmental responsibility. Slogan-chanting throughout the march attracted public attention and appreciation. Photographs and videos of the rally were submitted to the Institutional Public Relations Cell and shared with local media for wider coverage. The event effectively reinforced the importance of the One Health approach — a global movement integrating human, animal, and environmental health — and encouraged the community to contribute toward a healthier and safer world.
